

Amy Steacy

Description

About:

Amy is a results-driven legal advisor and thought partner with exceptionally broad-based experience, with her current practice being similarly broadly based. Amy provides fractional general counsel services, which include counseling clients regarding corporate matters, compliance matters, intellectual property matters, dispute resolutions, and a wide variety of technology and commercial transactions. Following the completion of a judicial clerkship after law school, Amy began her legal career as a corporate attorney at the international law firms of Morrison & Foerster LLP and Cooley LLP. As a corporate attorney, Amy counseled private and public companies across a range of industries, with her practice having a heavy focus on mergers and acquisitions, while also including private financing transactions (from early-stage convertible debt to private equity) and general corporate matters. Following private practice as a corporate attorney, Amy established and built out the legal function at CustomInk, LLC, a leading e-commerce company, where she remained for a decade handling all of the company's legal matters before joining Kaleo Legal in September 2022.

Amy earned her J.D. from the Antonin Scalia Law School at George Mason University, where she graduated **magna cum laude**, and her B.S. in Political Science from Truman State University.
